

No one elects to be hungry, but you can vote to help stop it.

AmpleHarvest.org is a nationwide charity created by a CNN Hero that helps millions of gardeners to donate excess garden produce to local food pantries, including this pantry.

AmpleHarvest.org has been nominated for the Classy Awards (an awards program for charities) for its efforts to educate, encourage and enable millions of gardeners to donate excess food AND to educate and enable thousands of food pantries to accept locally grown produce.

AmpleHarvest.org now needs your help. Please take a moment to vote online for AmpleHarvest.org before August 25.

Your online vote will help AmpleHarvest.org enable even more food pantries across America to receive fresh garden produce.

Please visit www.AmpleHarvest.org/vote to learn how you can vote to help stop hunger. Thank you.

www.AmpleHarvest.org/vote	www.AmpleHrvest.org/vote
---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------